

The excavation of the Roman hobnailed boot from a barrack floor in the 1st timber fort.

Archaeologists had to be sharp-eyed to see this! It was a very exciting find of 7 Roman coins in a purse a soldier 2000 years ago must have dropped his day's wages!

Part of a quernstone, used for grinding corn or sharpening blades. It was found on the floor of the blacksmith's workshop in the second timber fort.
